

Why Should You Choose An Ambulatory Surgery Center?

Ambulatory surgery centers (ASCs) are outpatient facilities that provide same-day surgical care. The specialized procedures offered at ASCs are usually less complicated than those performed in hospitals, allowing patients to go home the same day and avoid the additional costs that come with hospitalization.

- Ambulatory surgery centers focus on just one thing: outpatient surgery.
- These are small facilities that are easily accessible, with staff specifically selected and trained to deliver care in an outpatient setting.
- The smaller size of an ASC lends itself to a warm and calm environment, where care is more personal.
- Many surgery centers use flat-fee billing for each surgical procedure. Patients can find out what the ASC will charge and how much they will owe...all before surgery is scheduled or performed.
- Surgery centers have proven themselves for more than 30 years to be high-quality facilities, providing surgical care in an environment that reduces exposure to infections.
